

Heritage Stone Birdhouses

By Heritage Stone Art

Its not just a birdhouse but boy, is it ever a birdhouse!

Your new Heritage Stone Birdhouse has been designed and loaded with many desirable features to specifically attract various, popular songbirds such as; chickadees, wrens, song sparrows, finches, etc.. It is also a unique work of art for your yard or in your home.

Heritage Stone Art creates thematic, functional works of art incorporating mixed aspects of nature to draw you back to nature. Stone, wood, colour, texture, shape and even the wildlife they attract are aspects that will rekindle past feelings and emotions from places you have been and experiences you have had.

Each Heritage Stone Birdhouse is made with tough, durable materials to withstand the harsh Canadian elements and attract a range of beautiful songbirds year after year:

- All dimensions are the most desirable to the nesting requirements of a variety of songbirds.
- Ventilation below the roof edge.
- Drainage in the bottom plate.
- Easy, no tool cleanout by removing the bottom plate (cleanout after the nesting season in late summer or fall).
- A special mixture of stones that have been cleaned and etched to increase bond strength and the intensity of the natural colour and texture of the minerals within them. The stones are an attraction to the birds but also provide a unique decorative appeal, insulation from extreme heat and cold, stability from driving winds if hung and the entrance hole cannot be chewed larger by predators.

The songbirds will be looking for all of these features long before the spring nesting season begins. You can locate the house at anytime but especially by March for the coming season. It is best to face the entrance hole away from the prevailing wind. Mount on a post or hanging 5 – 15 feet off the ground in an area that will provide sun for 50% of the day and not near a feeding station but near trees and shrubby structure. By adding some wood shaving in the bottom and hanging nearby some good nesting material such as 4” yarn pieces, small twigs or strips of paper you will be assisting the birds as well as attracting them to nest in your birdhouse.
